

Nurse Practitioner Week 2021

For Nurse Practitioner Week, CINA would like to acknowledge all of those practitioner nurses selflessly working every day, especially during the difficult days of the pandemic, when the lives of many patients depended on the work of medical staff.

The nurse practitioner's colossal experience, professionalism, and dedication made it possible to effectively resist the disease that threatens the entire planet.

CINA would like to thank each of you for all your significant heart's efforts in your daily routine that are helping thousands of people to overcome their illness and come back to life.
